Puerto Morelos rests between Cancun and Playa del Carmen on the prestigious Mexican "Mayan Riviera &rdquo; . Set in lush jungle and secluded beaches the remote location is an ideal escape. Puerto Morelos is generally tropical and warm. The average temperature is 80 degrees. Dressing is casual, even in the finest restaurants. The fishing in this region caters especially to sport fishermen with trophy-size sailfish, marlin, dorado, and tuna. It could set a new standard for Marlin and Sailfish fishing, with new information about the coastline. We have spent many years exploring these new Marlin and Sailfish waters, with more still waiting to be explored. If you are looking for a real fishing adventure, English speaking Captains, fish that have rarely seen a fly or lure, try the newest and most exciting in the Mexican Caribbean. The area has been noted by Fishermen as "one of the most beautiful deserted beaches in the world." Visitors may also enjoy relaxing on the beach, swimming, water sports and the nightlife of the Mexican Caribbean. For information on where to find great FLATFISHING opportunities for bonefish, permit and tarpon and other species, please refer to this link: FLY FISHING from Puerto Morelos PUERTO MORELOS FISHING GROUNDS In this section we cover saltwater fish found off the Mayan Riviera Coast and the rich clear water offshore fishing grounds of the Mexican Caribbean. Saltwater specialized guides help you identify and locate your target fish, advise you on successful fishing methods and their fighting characteristics, and the proper tackle and baits used to catch them.

Pesca Maya will provide you with everything you need for an exciting day of saltwater fishing. Our knowledgeable fishing guides and captains have the experience to offer you an unforgettable day and provide the skills and techniques needed for a successful and enjoyable fishing trip. Fishing Overview The Mayan Riviera reputation is prominent in the world of deep-sea fishing, and is known as "One of The Sailfish Hot Spot of the World" among many deep-sea fishing enthusiasts. These are the peninsula of Yucatan fishing villages: Puerto Morelos, Playa del Carmen, Puerto Aventuras, Akumal and Tulúm these are often referred to as "the privileged locations on the Mayan Riviera for sailfish migration". It is in these waters off Yucatan where the big game fish love to lurk. Fresh runs of blue, white Marlin, Sailfish, Dorado, Wahoo, Barracuda, and yellowfin Tuna tempt anglers all year around. No matter what time of the season you decide to fish the Mayan Riviera, it will be a trip you will not forget for a long, long time! There's nothing on earth like sinking the barb into a really World Class Sailfish, and Puerto Morelos is just the place to experience Explosive Fishing! When's the last time you caught a Sailfish or a Marlin ? Well, fishing Puerto Morelos is the chance of a lifetime to get that wall-hanger. The sandy ocean floor plunges dramatically down into deep blue darkness, bringing the hunting grounds for game fish practically to the shore. Sports fishermen also praise the southern beaches of this area for their abundance of Dorado, Wahoo, Barracuda, Jack Crevalle, Red Snapper, Grouper, Spanish Makarel and other minor species. There are tales of the seasonal Marlin runs "once you see that bill jumping out of the water, you're hooked". Our boats can reach prime fishing territory and be running gear in less than 5 minutes only half of mile from shore. With over 500 species in the waters of the Mayan Riviera, there's fishing for every level, from the curious beginner to the serious professional. Your fishing day: what to bring We suggest bringing tennis shoes, comfortable clothes, sunglasses, baseball-type cap or visor, sunscreen lotion, snacks, Cool-cup holder and your favorite cd's &hellip; Don't forget your camera, be it video or snap shot or both! If prone to sea sickness bring your medicine. Your fishing day begins usually at 8:00 AM, be at the dock on time! What your boat provides: - Your Captain speaks English.

- Your Captain has years of experience.
  - Tackle, bait and fishing license.
  - Soft drinks, ice and water, you can bring beer and or liquor. Both women and men, instructions are given in the proper technique for fighting deep sea game fish. Beginners are welcome!!!! The best months for fishing and other activities are March, April., May, and June. For our location, enjoy the thrill of catching sailfish, marlin, or tuna when you visit Playa del Carmen. The experienced captain and crew will take you to all the right spots for an opportunity to hook the "big one." Beginners are welcome!!!!
